ASSESSMENT

Assessment can be defined as the systematic and ongoing method of gathering, analyzing, and using information from various sources about educational programs, administrative services, and academic and student support services, using measured outcomes to improve services and student learning. The assessment process provides feedback to determine what needs to be improved. The process also informs unit heads, program coordinators, and other decision-makers of the contributions and impact of the units and educational programs on the development and growth of students. In addition, the assessment process demonstrates what the unit and educational programs are accomplishing for students, faculty, staff, and other constituents. Finally, the process supports campus decision-making activities such as unit and educational programs review and strategic planning.
